MUSEUM CELEBRATES REOPENING WITH FREE ADMISSION

Visit Kansas City's newest national museum on Saturday, October 17

October 12, 2015 (KANSAS CITY, MO) – The National Museum of Toys and Miniatures (T/m) is celebrating the museum's reopening with free admission on Saturday, October 17. Come see what more than 10,000 visitors have called "well worth a visit" and "probably the best museum in town" since it reopened on Saturday, August 1, 2015.

In addition to playing I-Spy with the museum's two-story spinning helix of toys and trying your hand at fine-scale miniatures by using tweezers to place hands on a seven-inch-tall grandfather clock, visitors will have the chance to explore the collection through a scavenger hunt. Find the answers to all the clues and get a prize while supplies last!

WHAT: FREE Reopening Celebration

WHERE: The National Museum of Toys and Miniatures
5235 Oak Street
Kansas City, Missouri 64112

WHEN: October 17, 2015

THE NATIONAL MUSEUM OF TOYS AND MINIATURES

The National Museum of Toy and Miniatures educates, inspires, and delights adults and children through the museum's collection and preservation of toys and miniatures. Located on the University of Missouri - Kansas City campus, the museum exhibits the world's largest collection of fine-scale miniatures and one of the nation's largest collections of antique toys. The museum reopened on August 1, 2015 after an $8 million renovation. For more information, call (816) 235-8000 or visit www.toyandminiaturemuseum.org.
